

Media Contact:

Marianne Gustafson

marianneg@jobsearchpublishers.com

Executive Series Enhancement of The EmployMentorGuide© Online Links For Company Research & Interviewing Questions

April 1, 2008 – Job Search Publishers LLC, the developer and online portal for The EmployMentor Guide©, the leading job-search organizer product line for individuals who are conducting or participants in executive searches, announced that they have added Internet links to both the Advanced Executive Series and the Advanced College Series EmployMentor Guide©s versions.

“We’ve added to both our Advanced Series’ unique fillable and drop down activities items functionality new direct activity forms links to key websites for company and professional networking research,” reports Marianne Gustafson, Publisher. She added, “Users now have with each electronic document direct links to Yahoo Finance, Yahoo Industries, Hoovers, Google, LinkedIn, the Wall Street Journal, and other sites. This allows them to open those sites from our products in addition to user’s own patterns of toggling between diverse research sites while they develop job search data and preparations.”

Ms. Gustafson added, “Further, we’ve included links to respected sites for interview question preparation and Google Maps and Mapquest on the Interviews View page to facility candidates’ travel directions.”

About Job Search Publishers LLC

Organize your job search with the leading downloadable products from the founding team at Job Search Publishers LLC, who developed and obtained the copyrights to the EmployMentorGuide(c), creating its electronic format for the Internet. Our content contributors, staff, and Advisory Board are experienced in executive search, corporations, small businesses, college recruiting, and professional services.