

Media Contact:

Marianne Gustafson

marianneg@jobsearchpublishers.com

Job Search Publishers and ProStores

June 1, 2008 – Job Search Publishers LLC, the developer and online portal for The EmployMentor Guide©, the leading job-search organizer product line for individuals who are job hunting or participants in executive searches, today announced that they have posted a working sample of their Advanced Series product on their ecommerce site, www.jobsearchpublishers.com.

“We’ve raised the bar for job seekers to experience the functionality of our Advanced Series products, notes Marianne Gustafson, Publisher. “By adding our Web Sample four page look at this electronically interactive, fillable series we are letting customers experience the unique drop-down menu job search guidance we offer,” she added. “The other six activities pages provide even more search suggestions than the four we can show.”

The company offers four of the products ten activities pages in the online sample including weblinks.

About Job Search Publishers LLC

Organize your job search with the leading downloadable products from the founding team at Job Search Publishers LLC, who developed and obtained the copyrights to the EmployMentorGuide(c), creating its electronic format for the Internet. Our content contributors, staff, and Advisory Board are experienced in executive search, corporations, small businesses, college recruiting, and professional services.